SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT- JUST LIKE MARY...

BY: MARY PENICH

“And Mary kept all these things, reflecting on them in her heart.”

From today’s gospel, Luke 2:16-21

My affection for Mary took root when I was a child. Whenever the scriptures referenced Mary, I pictured my favorite statue, painting, or Christmas card. These renderings portrayed a serene and beautiful young woman. She either held the child Jesus or prayed with folded hands. Mary’s clothing was impeccable and often trimmed in gold. A halo surrounded her head to assure me of Mary’s holiness. These representations accounted for my understanding of Mary, and the wistful child in me whole-heartedly embraced what I thought I knew. When I became an adult and then a spouse and a parent, this perception changed. I finally realized that Mary’s life wasn’t the series of serene tableaus which my favorite artwork suggested.

Though Mary likely experienced a childhood typical of her day, it didn’t last long. Historians tells us that young women of Mary’s day were often betrothed and given into marriage in their early teens. The scriptures tell us that Mary was promised to Joseph, a good and just man. Tradition tells us that Joseph was likely several years older than she. Conventional as this arrangement was, it went awry the day an angel visited. This emissary invited Mary to accept a pregnancy which wouldn’t begin in the usual way. Though Mary didn’t plan to be with child this early in her young life, and certainly not before she married, something impelled her to accept God’s invitation. Unfortunately, when the angel disappeared, Mary was left to inform her poor parents and poor Joseph of the situation. Imagine how that must have gone!

Did Mary’s parents question their daughter’s behavior? Or had they seen something in their child which indicated that she would accomplish the amazing one day? Though, for Mary’s sake, I hope it was the latter, I’m certain her parents worried just the same. Mary could have been stoned to death for being unfaithful to her betrothed. And what of poor Joseph? Did he think Mary was less than the woman he’d fallen in love with? Did he wonder how she could betray their love that way? Fortunately for all concerned, another angelic visitor clarified the situation for Joseph. He and Mary went on to marry as planned. Still, despite this chapter’s happy ending, Mary experienced many more difficulties in the years to come. Yet, in the face of all these troubles, Mary carried on. How? Only God and Mary know!

It seems to me that New Year’s Day is the perfect day to celebrate Mary. As I do this, I’m setting aside the saintly images which inspired my childhood devotion to her. Rather, I’m looking to the Mary who endured and overcame very human troubles which seemed to exceed everything most of us will experience. I’m looking to the woman who changed swaddling clothes, searched for a lost child, mourned her husband, and watched as her son left to preach God’s love to an unforgiving world. I’m looking to the woman who followed the accounts of Jesus’ work, who begged God to protect him, and who wept before the cross on which he died. How did Mary find the strength to stay as they tortured Jesus? How could she have left him? Yes, through everything, Mary carried on. How? Perhaps God and Mary aren’t the only ones who know...

Many of us have survived devastating illnesses, heart-breaking losses and fractured relationships which simply won’t heal. Many of us have survived persistent frustrations at work, in school and even at home where we should find refuge from such things. Many of us have survived events in our own families and in the world at large which seemed far too much to bear. Many of us have survived those annoying little things which we’d hoped to change, but never quite found the means to tackle. This was the case in Mary’s world, and this continues to be the case in our own. It seems that we’re managing our troubles just as Mary did after all. How? You see, Mary was and is very special to God, so are we.

This New Year’s Day, let’s thank God for last year’s gifts. While we acknowledge the troubles of Year 2022, we have survived them. Let’s thank God for being with us through it all. Finally, let’s thank God for the gift of New Year 2023. Though we hope that the gifts of 2023 outweigh its troubles, we’ll carry on as Mary did. After, like Mary, this is what we do. Happy New Year!

On behalf of all who received the beautifully written Christmas cards, thank you for your thoughtfulness! The cards were delivered to various assisted living and memory care facilities the week of December 19th. Each facility expressed their sincere thanks and gratitude for remembering their residents! A special thank you to the Knights of Columbus for providing a donation to purchase Christmas cards. God Bless!

SPRED catechists and friends would like to thank the church community for its generous support of the holiday candy sale. We exceeded our expectations of the sale, and we are grateful that we can continue to serve our special needs children and adults. The candy sale will be back in the spring just in time for Easter.
